

A NEWPORT WOMAN has been arrested for stealing a dress which she surreptitiously concealed in her hat. And very likely it wasn't such a whole of a hat either.

Albuquerque Evening Herald

MRS. PAQUIN says that now only few women are masters of individual taste. No woman, she says, for a list of a slender woman to be named by the community.

Are You a Go-Outer?

Are you a Go-Outer? Everybody else in America is. It's a national habit. Father and mother have it. Children have it. The family cat has it.

Staying at home of an evening is no longer in vogue. It's old-fashioned. Only families in small New England communities do it now.

Beaven Wedding Anniversary.

A most pleasant surprise was accorded Mr. and Mrs. John S. Beaven by a select few of their friends, Wednesday night, the occasion being their twenty-third wedding anniversary. Mr. P. D. McCarra, in a short and fitting speech on behalf of the guests, presented Mr. and Mrs. Beaven with a beautiful cut glass water set. After the presentation, bridge was indulged in. Mrs. Scott Knight winning first ladies' prize which was an elegant piece of cut glass, and Mr. Beaven the gentleman's first prize, a leather card case. Mrs. Kelly and Mrs. McGuire were awarded the consolation, small packs of cards. The evening was immensely enjoyed by Messrs. and Mesdames McCarra, McGuire, McMillin, McVay, Tierney, Roehl, Knight, Tessier, Schack, Altink, Ike, Graham, Warren, Graham, J. P. Snively, Hahn, Shoupe, Kelly, Mr. Hennessey, Mesdames Covell, Winkle and Rodgers.

"In Vodvil" a Success.

"In Vodvil," a clever entertainment which was not only a success socially but financially, was given at the Coliseum hall Thursday evening under the auspices of the German Order of Harugari, under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Friedberg. The opening overture was "Four Jacks," played by Mrs. A. Soella and orchestra. Then two character songs, "We All Fall" and "Someone Else Will if You Don't," were sung by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Friedberg. Mrs. John Strumquist gave the reading of a telephone romance; Mr. Ben Puryear sang "The Garden of My Heart," and Mr. John Drummond sang "The Stein Song."

Parents and Teachers to Co-Operate.

Next Tuesday evening the "Parents and Teachers Co-operative association" will hold their initial meeting in the First ward school building at 8 o'clock. Not only will the board of education be present but also the city teachers and just as many parents as will go. A large attendance is being looked for, as Albuquerque people are especially interested in their city schools. The entertainment committee is Mesdames J. W. Wilson, H. P. Williams, T. R. Butts, W. E. Pratt, D. H. Boatright, Ed. Lovett, Stayland and John Strumquist. The program will be: Invocation—Rev. H. P. Williams. Music—Y. W. C. A. Mandolin Trio. Reading of the Constitution—Mrs. J. W. Strumquist. Welcome Address—Mrs. J. W. Wilson. Address, "Practical Benefit of the Association to Albuquerque Children"—John Milne, superintendent of city schools. Vocal selection—Mr. Gould. Reading, "The Adopted Mother"—Mrs. Wolf. Open Discussion—Led by Mrs. Wilson.

Parties of the Week.

Mrs. Roy McDonald was hostess to a few of her friends at a luncheon in honor of Miss Ida Dunkley Friday afternoon. Those entertained were: Mesdames J. B. Herndon, O. A. Matson, George Klock, Arno Huning, Margaret Medler, Joe Brown, Walter Connell, Mabel Himee, Al Frost, Misses Dunkley, Susanne Edgar, Brent, Willey and Betty Willey.

Mrs. Amado Chavez entertained a few of Mrs. Childers' most intimate friends Friday afternoon, commencing Mrs. Childers, who leaves the first part of the week for her home in California.

Mrs. E. A. Vaughney proved a delightful hostess Tuesday evening at a dinner party given at her home on West Copper avenue. The color scheme of yellow and white was cleverly carried out, even to the catkins. Shaggy yellow chrysanthemums were the pretty bloom used for the center piece of the dining table, and yellow shaded chrysanthemums were artistically placed so as to cast a pretty glow

The Campfire Girls and Their Work: Albuquerque Has Two Branches of the Splendid Organization

The Duke City is the possessor of two organizations of Camp Fire Girls and yet the great majority of people do not know their worth nor appreciate their aims. Like all other organizations, they have their higher officers, who direct and plan their work in a general way. Still there are so many different departments that any girl ought to be able to do just the work she likes and still win laurels.

Each local camp is designated by some special name. In this city the girls have selected "Abhathyan" for their regular meetings are held once a week and when there is initiation the Council Fire meets and new members are taken in, honors are awarded and acquisition of rank takes place.

Ranks: First when a girl joins she becomes a Wood Gatherer. The national headquarters gives her a silver ring on which is a bundle of seven fagots representing the seven points of the law. This ring is her membership token and typifies the spirit of the organization—co-operation and comradeship. The ring cannot be bought and must not be sold nor given away. It may belong only to a Camp Fire Girl. The attainment of membership is completed upon the report by the guardians to the national headquarters in accordance with the established forms for permanent record.

Each club spent a very enjoyable afternoon at the home of Mrs. Luther M. Stone, 315 North Sixth street, Rev. P. W. Longfellow gave a very interesting talk on "The Work of the Clubs and What They Are Doing." Mrs. Wolf gave a selected reading after which refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Halling and Mrs. Horace Strong.

At the regular meeting of the Women's Club Friday afternoon a large number of ladies were in attendance. Mrs. N. E. Stevens was leader. After a number of piano solos, presented among which were "Indian Lodge," (MacDowell) by Miss Irma Volkening, and "Russell of Spring" (Lindberg) by Miss Dorothy Brown, a discussion of the "High Cost of Living" led by Mrs. Albright, as against the "Cost of Right Living" led by Prof. Clark, occupied the afternoon. Mrs. Albright's discussion was keen and at times witty and her line of argument clear and incisive.

The "Masonic Club" has reorganized with Mr. S. H. Bush as president, Mr. Charles Lemke, treasurer and Mr. Will McMillin, secretary. The club will give a dance once a month in the Masonic temple and will hold the first one on Friday Oct. 21, Halloween.

Y. W. C. A. Entertainment.

Thursday evening the Y. W. C. A. gave a reception and entertainment which will long be remembered by many. Mrs. J. H. Heald received the guests, who were ushered into the library, where an entertainment of unusual merit awaited them. At the appointed time "Mrs. Jarley," who was Mrs. Fern King, appeared with her wax works. Each statue was wrapped in a sheet until the proper time for it to report. Miss Grace Grimmer represented the maid who assisted Mrs. Jarley in keeping the wax works well oiled. Miss Ogle was a German girl who gave a report of the house secretary. Misses Elizabeth Arnet, Rebecca Horne and Annette Weinman cleverly represented the Camp Fire Girls. Miss Frances Strom represented the Cascade club, and Miss Hattie Heald told of the religious work of the association. Mrs. Jarley's wax works were represented in other departments by Miss Marion Watlington, Miss French, Miss Rose Darrow, Miss Olive Dixon, Miss Gertrude Truffenberg and Miss Florence Johnson. After the entertainment Mrs. Felix Lester and Mrs. G. L. Brooks served refreshments.

Entertainment at Congregational Church.

The entertainment at the Congregational church last evening spelled SUCCESS in large letters. A good crowd inspired the performers and the program was much appreciated by all. Miss Pearl Tompkins not only rendered her solo with the touch of an artist but proved herself to be an excellent accompanist. Mrs. Fern King and Mrs. Wolfe were the readers of the evening and delighted the audience. Miss Charlotte Pratt, who is always sure to please, sang with her usual sweetness. Another singer of the evening was Miss Mary McPhe. Miss McPhe is fast becoming popular in the musical circles of this city. A duet was given by Miss Katherine Grimmer and Miss Frances Strom, and a quartette by Miss Pratt, Miss Florence Seder, Mr. Robert Sewell and Mr. Stanley Seder. A pipe organ solo was given by Mr. Seder and it goes without saying that when Mr. Seder is at the organ everyone is delighted.

Church Affairs.

Next Thursday afternoon the ladies of the Gold and Broadway church will give a social tea at the home of Mrs. John Strumquist, 887 East Grand avenue. A musical program

On fulfilling certain requirements the Wood Gatherer becomes a Fire Maker and her emblem is changed. On fulfilling certain other requirements the Fire Maker becomes a Torch Bearer and so on, for there is so much that a girl can accomplish that her laurels increase rapidly.

The elective honors are under departments such as Health, Home Craft, Nature Lore, Camp Craft, Hand Craft, Business and Patriotism. Each department is subdivided.

Under the department of Business two of our girls earned three dollars apiece and presented the money to the children's room in the city library. The earning of the money gave the girls special honors.

Miss Stone of the Y. W. C. A. is the guardian of the two camps and further information will be cheerfully given by her to any girl who would like to join.

At present the rolls include: Miss Jane Herron, guardian; Misses Winona Dixon, LeClare Cavanaugh; Eileen Morley, Irene Fee, Clyde Wilson, Louise Treffenberg and Grace Stortz.

Mrs. E. R. Christy, guardian; Misses Annette Weinman, Flora Chess, Rebecca Horne, Pauline Borradale, Elizabeth Arnet, Anna Cristy, Katherine McMillen and Gladys Hayden.

has been prepared and a pleasant afternoon is anticipated.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the St. Pauls English Lutheran church is planning a social to be given on Halloween. Of course, every thing will be mysterious and the place where the social is to be held is another mystery for no one knows but the ladies in charge, and they are planning to give the young people a big surprise.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Presbyterian church is planning its annual "Home Comers" and "Get Acquainted" social for next Friday evening to be given in the Presbyterian church. The ladies are noted for their cordial manner and it is expected every one will be at home and before the evening is over every one will be acquainted.

The home department of the Ladies Aid society of the Baptist church held a meeting at the home of Mrs. Clifford 319 North Thirteenth street, Wednesday afternoon. Rev. P. W. Longfellow gave a short talk on "Family Worship" which was greatly enjoyed by all those present. Dainty refreshments were served.

Mrs. Longfellow entertained the young married ladies' Bible class of the Baptist church yesterday afternoon at her home on North Water street.

Mrs. L. O. Anderson, 200 North Edith street, will be hostess to the Ladies Aid society of the Baptist church next Thursday afternoon.

About twenty-five ladies attended the missionary society meeting of the Lead Ave. Methodist church Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Berkman, who was delegate to the conference at Baton Rouge, gave a very interesting report. Mrs. Leaning, who is state secretary of the Woman's Home Missionary society, gave a talk on the work in her department. After these reports the ladies took up their regular after-school program which was the study of the Chinese nation. Mrs. Porterfield was the leader. Mrs. Casper, who has been president was given the office of treasurer, and Mrs. White was elected president.

The Ladies Aid society of the Gold and Broadway church of Christ held a meeting at the home of Mrs. Wears Thursday afternoon. The afternoon was spent in working and visiting with Mrs. E. C. Butler, a former president who has recently returned from an extended auto trip through the east.

Mrs. J. C. Badridge was hostess to the Ladies Aid society of the Congregational church Thursday afternoon. Plans were discussed as to the work for the year. Mrs. Robinson sang a solo and Mrs. McCloskey gave a reading. After this the hostess served refreshments.

When the Rector's Aid of the St. Johns Episcopal church met Monday afternoon they planned a reception to be given in the Women's Club Tuesday, October the twenty-ninth. It was decided to make the affair as informal as possible as the main object of the evening will be to get acquainted. Mrs. E. L. Bradford will be in charge of the music for the evening. Mrs. A. F. Morrisette is at the head of the reception committee and Mrs. C. O. Clarke will see to it that every one is provided with plenty of refreshments.

The ladies of the St. Paul's English Lutheran church held an afternoon coffee at the home of Mrs. Julius Seeborn, on Forester avenue, last Wednesday afternoon. Autumn flowers were used in the decorations and all the ladies who attended were pleased with the cordial manner in which they were received.

The ladies of St. John's Guild will give a tea at the home of Mrs. A. F. Morrisette, 216 North Ninth Street, next Thursday afternoon. Mesdames Wm. McMillan, Geo. Klock, S. Van-

Rummell, Jenks and Newhall are in charge and will be assisted by Misses Sue Dobson, Jean Hubbs, Eunice McClellan and Gertrude Walker.

The initial meeting of the St. John's Guild was held Wednesday afternoon and elected the following officers: President, Mrs. W. W. McClellan; first vice president, Mrs. Geo. Klock; second vice president, Mrs. S. T. Vann; third vice president, Mrs. L. J. Rummell; treasurer, Mrs. Jenks; secretary, Mrs. Newhall.

Former Albuquerque Girl Prominent Figure in Sensational Matrimonial Imbroglio

Following Second Marriage, James M. Hollister Swears Out Complaint That Laura Armijo Hollister Seeks Him With a Gun; Former Wife Says She Doesn't Care a Rap About Him.

Albuquerque society folks have been somewhat interested in the matrimonial intrigues of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Hollister of Denver; or, to be more exact, the troubles of Mr. Hollister, of his former wife, Laura Armijo Hollister, an Albuquerque girl, and the second marriage report, the groom going around with a sworn complaint in his pocket charging his former wife with threatening him with a revolver, the former wife denying that she cares a rap what he does and the new wife in a state of somewhat natural apprehension.

The following from Denver newspapers describing the recent wedding and its after-developments will be of interest. The Denver Republican says:

James M. Hollister is carrying around in his pocket the complaint he had sworn out in the district attorney's office to keep his former wife, Mrs. Laura Hollister, under bonds to preserve the peace.

"When will you file it?" he was asked last night.

"I am not at liberty to say," he answered.

"Do you intend to file it?"

"I would prefer not to discuss it," was the answer.

Mrs. Laura Hollister gave instructions to the clerk at the Auditorium hotel yesterday that reporters were not to be allowed to bother her either in person or over the phone.

She was finally induced to give an interview over the phone.

"The stories that I was on my way to my former husband's house with a revolver when Sheriff Sullivan intercepted me are lies," she insisted. "I have not gone to my husband's house since his marriage either to see him or to threaten him. I have no desire to see him. I don't care a rap about him. I care still less about his marriage. I care only about my baby girl. Naturally, as her mother, her future welfare concerns me. Ruth is all the world to me. I would have fought for her long ago if I had felt I was in a position to give her the home I should like for her. I prefer to care for her myself rather than that a step-mother should rear her."

"If I will say this much—I will make a bitter fight in the courts for her custody. Mr. Hollister is unfair. He knows I have nothing. He does not even pay me proper alimony. If he paid me the alimony he should I would be able to give Ruth a home. I have her during the summer. I mean to ask the court to compel Mr. Hollister to pay me what he should."

"Mr. Hollister's mother has been taking care of Ruth. Mother Hollister and I are the best of friends. I would have no objection if she continued to have the care of the child."

"She said to me only the other day that she hoped 'Jim,' referring to her son, would not take the baby from her."

"What I object to is having this other woman rear my daughter. I don't know much about her now, but I intend to find out more."

"I prefer not to talk for publication," said Mr. Hollister, when his former wife's statements were repeated to him, "but perhaps it might be wise to answer some of the statements that have been made. I have little to say. The fact that the court awarded me the custody of my daughter speaks for itself.

"No court would deprive a mother of her child if it deemed her a fit custodian. On my agreement the court entered a decree allowing the child's mother to have her two months in the year. Recently this decree was changed cutting down the time to one month. I was under no legal obligation to pay my wife alimony. I chose to do so in order that when my daughter grew up she would have nothing to criticize her father for. I have played fair. This is all I wish to say."

Sheriff Sullivan says he is clear on the point that he took from Mrs. Hollister a revolver she had concealed in her coat as she stepped from the car to go to her husband's home in Country Club Place last Tuesday.

Miss Florence Blair, whom Mr. Hollister married, is not an actress. She was visiting Miss Blanche Bates when Mr. Hollister first met her.

The Denver Post of recent date says of the recent wedding:

A case of love at first sight, budding into a brief and ardent wedding, culminated in Omaha on Saturday night, when Miss Florence Blair of Brookline, Mass., was married to James M. Hollister of Denver.

This morning, announcements of the wedding having been sent to a few friends, they are wondering when the couple met; how often they saw each other and what magic they employed to divert the eye of suspicion to those who imagined them to be merely casual acquaintances.

Miss Blair met Mr. Hollister when she was a guest of Blanche Bates at the Arvada bungalow of the actress. The second meeting occurred at a dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Handley for Miss Bates and Miss Blair. The third meeting was an "au revoir" dinner for Miss Blair, at which Miss Bates was again hostess.

Miss Blair is of that delicate, refined type of beauty which immediately conjures the vision of a splendid ancestry and from such an ancestry U. S. Hollister inherited loveliness of face and character, her charms, her keen mind, and it is said a very substantial fortune.

Mr. Hollister is general sales manager of the Continental Oil company, a member of the Country club, golf and tennis enthusiast. He has been recently in the public eye through the settlement of divorce proceedings from his former wife, which gave him the absolute custody of his daughter Ruth.

The original plan of Mr. Hollister and Miss Blair included a November wedding at the farm of Miss Bates in New York. Miss Blair being an orphan and not wishing to open her own house in Brookline, the fashionable Boston suburb.

Omaha became the scene of the wedding on a sudden impulse of the man and woman. On Sunday Mrs. Hollister returned to Boston to settle affairs pertaining to the estate of her mother, giving November as the date of her return to Colorado, where she and Mr. Hollister will make their home. Mr. Hollister, caught in the machinery of business, returned to Denver at noon today.

Mr. Hollister is a brother of U. S. Hollister, well known here and his divorced wife is a member of a prominent New Mexico family.
